

ALL-AMERICAN CANAL IS DEAD.

Committee at Washington Breaks up to go Home.

Word Comes of Dwindling Funds for Junketing.

Highway Engineer Coming to Angeles Forest.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The committee from the Imperial Valley to the all-American canal project apparently will fall by default.

There is a wide difference of opinion among the members, and most of them are planning to go home at an early date, believing they can accomplish more in the valley than they can in Washington.

Thomas Yeager, who has been representing the Coachella Valley, has received word from those who represent that funds for further effort are low and that he had better return to California at an early date. O. N. Shaw of Holtville has been in New York for several days and plans to return to California as soon as possible.

Mark Ross, father of the all-American canal plan, is discouraged and hopes soon to be able to return to the Imperial Valley and again organize a strong community backing for his plan. Messrs. Kirby and Nelson, representing the solution, seem to have evolved a plan for their own action independent from the other members of the committee, and cohesion no longer exists. With the other members of the committee, they appear not to be on speaking terms, and altogether the new year does not open auspiciously for the all-American canal, denounced by the President's commission and by all the other engineers of standing as not feasible and disastrous.

A. L. Roth, highway engineer of the bureau of public roads of the Department of Agriculture, will leave Washington within a week or two for Los Angeles. He goes there to further the construction of the Arroyo Seco and San Gabriel Canyon highways.

To Mr. Roth has been delegated the work of supervising the Federal co-operation in the immediate development of these two important arteries into the San Gabriel forest reserve.

Fighting forest fires is one of the most important of the duties of the bureau of forestry, and in order to control future fires this bureau wants the two roads completed as soon as possible. Therefore, the channel aid-to-be extended will be liberal, it is stated. In order to concentrate the work this has all been turned over to Mr. Roth and will be on the ground check up with the work and familiarize himself with all details, both his own and those of the bureau of public roads and also on account of the interests of the forestry reserve. He will be in Los Angeles for some time. He will arrive there before the end of the month.

FRENCH TREATY NOT FAVORED BY BRYAN.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—W. J. Bryan is vigorously opposed to the French treaty, as well as to Article X of the League of Nations covenant. Mr. Bryan expressed this view to several Democratic Senators on his recent visit to Washington, during which he was entertained as the guest of honor at a dinner party of twenty-two Democratic Senators.

The French treaty cannot stand very much more opposition in the opinion of observers here. A canvass of the Senate made since Mr. Bryan's visit with a view to discovering if his opposition had any effect disclosed the French treaty must have the breath of life blown into it all over again before it will have a chance for ratification.

It was not discovered that Mr. Bryan's opposition had anything to do with this, but it was clear that not only is there much opposition to the treaty, but that there is no real unanimity of opinion among the Democrats as to whether to ratify it.

Chicago Prisoners Howl "When Do We Eat" as They are Forced Spectators of Hanging of Murderer; Psychological Test is Failure.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Out at the County Jail in the grisly dim hour of dawn, an experiment in psychology was tried this morning, when 200 prisoners were forced to witness the hanging of Raffaele Durango, convicted murderer. Hardened criminals—other murderers and felons whose explanation is not yet the gallows—were placed in cells, tier on tier of which surrounded the square in which the scaffold had been erected.

It was the contention of Sheriff Peters that the sight of the gruesome trappings, the watching of the administration of last rites, the sound of the click of the spring trap and the jerk of the rope as its slack was snapped up by the falling body—all these would have a most salutary effect upon those in whose minds lurked future temptations to slay, or to rob, or to burn.

And so firmly did the Sheriff believe in the efficacy of this idea that he persisted in it despite the request from Gov. Lowden that he abandon the plan, and the added protests from scores of other persons who thought the scheme was unnecessarily brutal.

Accordingly the stage was set in the death chamber.

"WHEN DO WE EAT?" Durango was led forth. The quiet in the death chamber became absolute for a moment. Then the noise was abrupt over the murderer's head. From one of the higher tiers came a strident shout: "When do we eat?"

Tier by tier, cell by cell, the cry was taken up. It became a roar, which the wardens' voices could not be heard above. The trap was sprung. Durango dropped into the space beneath the scaffold—dead.

"When do we eat?" was his regular. Sheriff Peters declared after the execution that Gov. Lowden's secretary, Mr. Sutton, telephoned the Sheriff and asked regarding plans for the hanging, but did not object to the Sheriff's programme.

The Sheriff later issued a statement, answering critics who opposed his action in permitting prisoners in the jail to witness the hanging as an object lesson. His statement reads as follows:

"In my opinion, the modern coding of criminals by well-meaning, but misguided, sympathetic, theo-

ROADS REFORMERS.

"If one-half of the energy now spent in sympathy on murderers and criminals would be devoted to the families of the victims and the other half to bringing to justice the brothers who have blotted out the names of the victims, the world would be a happier and safer place to live in."

Before the execution the receiver of the only telephone connecting the jail with the outside world was removed from his hook in Jailer Davies's office.

It was reported that this action was taken to prevent a possible reprieve of the condemned man from the jail. Jailer Davies said: "I can't say why it was done. You see the telephone is out of order."

PRECIOUS METAL MINES RESTRICTED BY LABOR.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—High labor cost has heavily late year into the output of metals, including gold and silver, from three great producing States of the West, Oregon, Nevada and Colorado. Figures compiled by the geological survey show a total metal production of $47,984,920 in 1919, as compared with $48,672,328 in 1918 for these States.

The report says the decrease was due chiefly to scarcity and increased cost of labor and post-war conditions.

BULLNECK BRICKLAYERS FIX $10 A DAY AS SCALE IN 1920; BONE FOR MUNICIPAL CLERKS.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—The limit has not been reached. The 1920 wage scale for bricklayers was set at $10 a day. The city paid $2.75 a day for carts in 1919; now it is $2.75. That is an increase of more than 57 per cent. Teams in 1912 received $5.50 a day and now $2. That is a boost of nearly 52 per cent. So, it seems reasonable that the city will meet the demands of union labor.

Probably the poor clerks will be thrown a bone. That is their luck. An efficiency chart in the finance committee room shows the average income of 618 selected clerks has increased only 17.46 per cent. since 1912. The clerks' data are even more striking.

A large number of the clerks went on strike last year and they got an increase over the previous year of 4.22 per cent.

In 1915 and 1916 the firemen got a salary increase which boosted their average income 35 per cent. The police got a 25 per cent. increase. Both desire to jump their incomes this year from $21,000 to $27,000. These two alone would increase the corporate expense $1,600,000. It has been roughly estimated that all of the wage boosts pending before the finance committee total more than $2,500,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—Wages of $10 a day for journeymen bricklayers in San Francisco have been approved by the employers, according to an announcement by the Bricklayers' Union here today. The wage agreement was negotiated by E. P. Marsh, special representative of the U. S. Department of Labor.

"Russia will regenerate herself by her own resources. I believe she will become the America of another new world. The Soviet government today is far more humane, far saner and far more statesmanlike than the so-called government of a year ago. Atrocities, of course, are being committed, but I know that when the 'perpetrators' are adjudged guilty they are exterminated."

Mr. O'Grady strongly opposed any action in Russia, saying it would be a delusion to build hopes on Admiral Kolchak and Gen. Denikin, both of whom are dead. He added, "We are not to be deceived."

CLAIM SOVIET ADVANCING.

The advance of the Bolshevik forces in the Donets coal basin is being reported by the Soviet government. It is claimed that the railway junction between Bakhmut and Lugansk has been occupied and that the Red lines are less than sixty-five miles east of Lugansk.

With the capture of Novocherkassk thousands of prisoners were taken, according to the Soviet government. It declares the occupation of Novocherkassk deprives the enemy of the only railway junction between the Black Sea and the Caucasus. FOR DEFENSE AGAINST.

Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania have joined, another message said, to participate in a conference at Helsinki on military defense plans against the Bolsheviks. Finland already has accepted and Poland probably will follow suit, the message said.

"PUPPY LOVE BENNIE" AGAIN SEEKS DEATH.

ADOLESCENT HERO OF LOVE TRIANGLE IN MIDLAND TOWNS FREEZING ONCE MORE.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—It will be recalled that a few days ago Bennie Sokolowski, 13 years old, and who has been nicknamed "Puppy Love Bennie" by the nurses at the County Hospital, was rescued from an ash can, to whose friendly depths he had rushed, following a disastrous "love triangle in midland." It was Christmas morning when he was fished out of the ash can. In one of his half-frozen hands was gripped a note written by Jennie Barry, who proclaimed herself "Your loving wife, Annie." Annie's parents live in the upper flat of the Sokolowski home. Just a few doors away resides a black-eyed hour, also about Bennie's age, whose name is Florence. She was something of a vampire, it appears, and after she had seduced Bennie, she figured the best way out of his troubles was to die, so he crawled into the ash can and resigned himself to the freezing process. He was fairly well along when a policeman fished him out and rushed him to the hospital. He was dismissed and sent home and yesterday morning he was found in the hospital for at least a week.

Let it be chronicled that Annie has been faithful to him all the while, but Florence, who once teased her dark curls and intimidated it was a matter of the utmost indifference to her whether he froze or not.

He will preach at the morning service on the subject, "If I were Christ, What Would I Do?" In the evening he will preach on the subject, "Curiosity—Is a Man More Curious Than a Woman? Robert Orr has been employed as the architect for the proposed new Wilshire Presbyterian Church to be erected soon on the corner of Third and Western avenues. Suggested plans are now being prepared, and it is expected that the plan to build will be adopted within a few days.

Dr. John Albert Eby will preach an appropriate New Year sermon tomorrow evening, his topic being "The Church and Nineteen-Twenty." He will answer many questions and criticisms concerning the modern church, such as "Has the church lost influence with thinking people? Are the churches methods antiquated? What did the church teach the nation in the contest of the war? What is the big job for the church in 1920?" In the evening will be held the first special service of community singing, led by W. E. The address of Mrs. Foltz will not interfere with the sermon of Dr. Locke, who will discuss the following questions: "What is the main want? Why is 1920 called a Leap Year, and why may women propose? Here Say "Norwood" was in Jail When Iowa Bandit was Busy.

Leighton, alias Al. Norwood, alias Frank Sherwood, alias "Red," was reported arrested in Colorado in 1910, while Leighton, under the name of Frank M. Sherwood, was arrested in Los Angeles in 1908, sentenced to serve seven years in San Quentin, and was paroled in 1912.

Replying to the Omaha police inquiry, the Los Angeles police yesterday reported that the police classification and other descriptions by which it is expected, the police will be able to identify the bandit without a doubt, whether or not Sherwood and Leighton were one and the same.

Further check will be made by Detectives Taylor, Wain and Cline today, with the view of establishing the exact dates of arrests in Iowa and Colorado, and also to learn if Sherwood, or Leighton, served the full term in the Missouri penitentiary and San Quentin. Sheriff, according to eastern reports, married a woman named Mrs. Bertha Leighton, the name of the woman, who was arrested in Kansas and sentenced to five years in the state prison, was reported to have been arrested in 1910, the same year as Sherwood's arrest.

WORK WILL SAVE GERMANY.

President Ebert's appeal to the American people for financial assistance for the new German republic is the latest development in world affairs. President Ebert says the German people are ready and willing to work, but they must have outside assistance to furnish food and raw material until industrial machinery is again functioning. Germany's plight will awaken little sentimental sympathy in the hearts of the American people as a whole. Germany owes her present financial and industrial plight to her own mad dream of world domination. Not ten factories in all Germany were destroyed during the war. With the exception of a small district in East Prussia, her lands were not devastated by the enemy.

With the fullest co-operation and consent of the German people themselves, her war lords took the accumulated wealth of two centuries of German industry, manufactured it into war material and wasted it in campaigns that brought her only humiliation and defeat. Much of this accumulated wealth was turned into ammunition and fired at the people of whom she is now begging a new supply. Who wrecked Germany's industry? Her own war lords. It is difficult for those on the outside to believe that a people who were able to finance five successive military campaigns, and whose territory was hardly scratched by the enemy, is now too weak to feed and clothe herself.

If the appeal is made in the name of charity, there are other places whence the need is more pressing. The condition of Austria is much worse than that of Germany and her guilt is less for she was only a puppet in the hands of a powerful and crafty ally. Poland and the little nations, newly created, can make an appeal for American charity with a much better grace than can those whom the present generation is very likely to remember as the Hun.

Germany will receive justice at the hand of the United States, but it will be a justice in which stately sentimentalism plays no part. At the same time, this country cannot afford wholly to ignore the German appeal. Germany is heavily indebted to more than one Allied nation and she must not be permitted to pass through the bankruptcy court and be declared an insolvent debtor. The sooner Germany's industries are functioning at a normal rate, the sooner she will be able to pay those indebtednesses, the greater part of which will go to replace the destroyed machinery in French and Belgian industrial districts that were devastated during the Hun invasion.

Again, if the German republic were to disintegrate into a Bolshevik oligarchy, it might be necessary for this country to send another expeditionary force overseas to save the civilization of Western Europe from a worse tyranny than that of militarism. Germany is now vacillating between republic and anarchy; it would be a great mistake, considering self-interest alone, for America to drive the new German republic to take refuge in an alliance with Lenin and Trotsky. America cannot afford to bury her war treasure, like a thief in the night, in the hands of a creditor nation, and we must use the credit where it will assure future prosperity for our industries.

It is just possible that President Ebert may intend this message as a feeler towards a possible rapprochement between this country and Germany, leading to a separate peace. If this be his intent he and his accomplices will be bitterly disappointed. There is even less pro-German sentiment in this country than there was when the great Argonne drive was at its height. The same pro-German elements are still here; but they form a slender minority whose strength and numbers are steadily waning. The leaders of the German people have persistently misunderstood the psychological attitude of the American people. They did not believe we were in the beginning; they did not think our soldiers would put their hearts into the fighting once they were on the other side; and they may now think that the rejection of the peace treaty indicates that we are ready to desert our Allies and form a German-American alliance.

It is in this frame of mind that President Ebert is addressing the American people. He is only wasting his energies. America's affection for her allies has not cooled; neither has her indignation against the Hun for the atrocities they committed under the pretense of waging war. America has a long memory, alike for friends and foes. But we must, nevertheless, recognize that the German people have a right to exist; that they will continue to be a factor in the world's industry and that we must meet them on a basis of economic equality.

In his message to the American people President Ebert says: "Germany still possesses one great asset which ought to offer as good a guarantee for her economic renaissance as billions of gold bars, namely, the German people's honest will and their singular capacity to work." He also refers to the "growing desire of the workmen to work full time." If President Ebert is stating the true attitude of the German workmen, his country will work out its economic salvation in due time unaided. The British and American workmen have been singularly loth to engage in productive labor since the war has ended. They have been the prey of sophists and demagogues who are encouraging them to look elsewhere than to their own hands for their living. The lack of a willingness to work is the greatest handicap American industry has encountered.

Germany's appeal for aid is worth considering carefully, worth analyzing and dissecting. It is a new offensive and the objective is not yet clear.

THE HOWLERS.
 There are people who rave if the banks loan money and roar if they don't. There are some who would oppose the League of Nations because they have heard that American banks would loan money to Europe. They think the security would be much better if the League were working but because it might help a bank they object. Their bump of intelligence is so narrow that the welfare of the bankers and the masses cannot be imagined as working in harmony. If the banks wanted sunshine they would feel compelled to pray for rain.

A JUSTIFIABLE ROAR.

The Times observes with unconcealed irritation and well warranted indignation that just one newspaper in America—the Chicago Tribune—had the temerity and indecency to surpass The Times in the total volume of advertising printed in its columns in 1919.

The Times' total for the year was 20,163,088 agate lines and the Tribune's was 23,322,874.

Every other newspaper in the country fell behind The Times with good grace. It had no rival in New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis or any of the larger cities, except Chicago; their newspapers behaved admirably. It seems to The Times that the Chicago Tribune deserves to be castigated and denounced and made to feel ashamed of itself for taking advantage of the white paper situation (owing its paper mills) and resorting to other measures to shove The Times into second place in the list of America's big leaguers. The Times belongs at the top, and the "Trib" should have stopped without passing it. Its rapacity for business cannot be too severely condemned. The Times does not hesitate to express its displeasure and repentment. Why could not its Chicago contemporary have done the polite thing and said, "After you, Alphonse"—why couldn't it? Then The Times would not have uttered these burning words of reproach and punishment.

That The Times led every newspaper in America (and that means in the world) except the Chicago Tribune, in the aggregate of its advertising patronage, is something, but not enough.

PROBLEMS IN PARKING.

The parking problem is one that bobs up in some form almost every day. If a man parks his wife in a downtown tea room, he is liable to find her smoking tea-fused cigarettes and talking Yogi stuff with some colored Mahatmas.

If he parks his Stetson in a waste paper bin he is likely to draw a pink bicycle cap when he makes his exit.

If he parks his diamond-studded Autocrat in front of the downtown streets, he is apt to find it transferred into one of Ford's road rabbits—either that or he will draw a notice from the traffic cop that he overstayed his welcome.

The problem before the City Council of making the downtown streets safe for democracy has stirred up a war that makes the Battle of Gettysburg seem like a checker game by comparison. Everybody is expressing himself with more or less bitterness—probably more. The Council ordered an ordinance prepared that would make Los Angeles a whistling station for motorists on the way from Pasadena to Van Nuys. Business men said that it would compel them to park their own cars in the family garage and either come to town on the street cars or crawl on their hands and knees. At any rate the ordinance forbade the parking of cars between the Plaza and Tenth street, from Los Angeles street to Figueroa—or thereabouts. It would clear the downtown curbs so thoroughly of cars that the merchants would forget what they looked like. They would be cutting pictures from the automobile section of The Times to paste in their windows. The common, ordinary variety of pedestrian would not only have plenty of time to do his pedestrianism, but if he wanted to he could change his shirt in the middle of Broadway without being bowled over by a hearse on its mad rush for the cemetery.

Verily, the people who walk, as well as the people who motor, are in a bad way. The yellow juggernauts of the traction companies, would have been fairly well pleased by the ordinance planned by the city fathers. But the seven or eight million owners of gasoline automobiles sent up an explosion like a flock of big Berthas bombarding Paris.

There are business men who argue that congestion is the hallmark of a city. They say that Los Angeles encourages crowds and should be proud of them. They declare that the crush in Broadway is the best advertisement we have and that to drive the motorists out into the byways and hedges would be a crime.

Meanwhile the pedestrians are still swearing. They say that the automobiles have usurped the sidewalks and are climbing upon the sidewalks. Whenever they try to reach a street car some careless driver will jolt them in the ribs with a fender or run them down without even an "excuse m." Downtown life is a good deal like a trip from the hospital to the morgue.

So there will have to be some compromising. The motorist will have to give bond to behave and the pedestrian must get a move on himself. Both must give as much time to recognizing the rights of others as they do in asserting their own.

It is a pity that the Spanish fathers and pioneers who laid out the city when land could be had for a song and everybody was a good singer, could not have given us wider streets. After setting off a road through which a couple of horsemen might pass without looking apert, they got stuck. The old Frenchmen who mapped out the city of Detroit more than two centuries ago were more prodigal. The principal thoroughfares there are 200 feet wide. By comparison our Broadway would be an insignificant lane. No wonder that Henry Ford located his shops in Detroit. There is plenty of room in the main streets for his road beetles to spin around.

Too bad we cannot make Broadway a three-deck affair. It would help much. Then we could have the street car traffic in a semi-portal subway; the automobiles on the ground floor and the pedestrian travel on a viaduct level with the second floor of the shops and thereby vastly increasing the value of all frontages.

If the street cars and the automobiles are to cut out the left-hand turn, the pedestrians might do the same thing. That would ease up the crossing jam wonderfully. Foot passengers in Broadway and Spring street could just as easily keep to the east side of the street in going north and on the west side when bound south. Then there wouldn't be so many collisions on the part of window shoppers. Furthermore, the pedestrians must be forbidden to cross the business streets in the middle of the block or behind street cars. It will take an ordinance to save the pedestrian from himself. He simply will not take the simplest precautions to save or prolong his own life. He will jauntily alight from a street car and then turn the rear platform to cross to the opposite side, only to be run down by a car moving in the other direction or bowled over by a fresh stream of auto traffic.

The pedestrian must be brought into the scheme of regulation, else a trained nurse will have to be assigned to each one. All these ideas for a radical clean-up of the traffic were inspired by the movement to speed the street car service and save an increase in fares. Most of the delays at crossings are caused by autos cutting into the middle of the road and over the street car tracks to pass other vehicles. The result is a double line at corners when there is only room for one. The street car will be stalled in the jam in the middle of the block and have to wait its turn once more. An agent in a man who says, "I don't get paid for what I do but for what I know."

What a brute the average man is! He always has more patience downtown than at home. What's become of the old-fashioned boy who could wait his hat without taking off his hat?

The "school of experience" holds too many night sessions. Enough chance to bait a mouse trap costs about a dollar. No one seems willing to give this country a chance to become reconstructed.

Street cars should be allowed to pass crossings two or three in tandem. If their loads are completed. Most of the lost time of the street car is wasted at crossings awaiting the pleasure of other traffic. A lot of this could be saved.

To attempt a complete revolution or to seek to establish perfection at one swoop would be futile. Even heaven is not to be attained by a single bound. It would be practical for chosen representatives of the street car, motor and pedestrian interests

SONG OF THE AEROPLANE.

I fly, I fly!
 With wings outstretched that never tire—
 Of woven web and sheaf of wire—
 And with a throbbing heart of fire,
 I fly, I fly!

I sail, I sail,
 Over the land and over the sea,
 And like a Boreasian bee,
 My paddles whirl a frenzy;
 I soar and roar!

I circle wide,
 Out from the busy marts of men,
 Over field and forest, hill and glen,
 Over all the countryside—and then
 I dip and glide.

I journey far,
 As bird of passage, sent by Time
 To carry in its flight sublime
 A token of service to every clime;
 I journey far!

I veer and climb,
 As eagle, wheeling in his flight
 To pierce the blue empyrean's height;
 The air outmastered by my might,
 I veer and climb.

Afar, afar,
 Where the void enwraps and the earth grows dim—
 Beyond the cloud with the purple rim,
 I wheel and dive and loop and skim,
 Afar, afar!

As bird of prey,
 I fight with my kind aloft as I fly,
 And the death that I deal is a bolt from the sky,
 That only the bravest dares to die,
 As bird of prey.

As bird a-wing,
 I seek the pathless fields of space,
 And tread the air and leave no trace;
 But not a bird shall keep my pace—
 No bird a-wing!

In eager quest,
 O'er fields of green and hills of brown,
 With rivers winding and weaving down,
 And landscapes spotted with city and town,
 I make my quest.

I soar and sing,
 Over the world's shifting face,
 Over a land that is sore and dead,
 Over the Colorado red,
 I leave the void.

My way is free—
 Beyond the mountains wreathed with snow,
 Where broad Pacific waters flow,
 In the flower fields of the after-glow,
 I claim mine own.

From shore to shore,
 I span a continent and rise and fall,
 The winds of heaven far and wide,
 Across ocean's stormy tide,
 From sea to sea.

The air is mine!
 And thus behold I issue forth
 Another flock of modern birds,
 To put a girder round the earth—
 The air is mine!

ECHO.
 I fly, I fly!
 I circle wide,
 I sail, I sail,
 I dip and glide;
 I veer and climb,
 I soar a-wing,
 I journey far,
 To soar and sing.

The air is mine;
 I span a continent and rise and fall,
 From shore to shore,
 From sea to sea,

AIN'T IT JUST SO?

Prof. Dink Deason says that one can get a lot of comfort out of the truths of mathematics. A girl liked him once and he felt awfully cut up about it until he figured out that there is something like a billion-and-half of other human beings in the fair sex. A Duke snubbed him one time; Mathematics showed him that by tracing his own ancestry to the fourteenth century, it would necessarily include him in its number. Not only all the Dukes of the Fetherland, but the Royal Family itself. When he grew old and discovered that he would never gain title to any more than a Sixty-three-dot space of his Native land, Mathematics informed him that the Earth is of mighty little importance anyway. Occupying only so much space in that part of the Universe lying between the Solar System and the Nearest Fixed Star as a grain of Sand One-seventh-thousandth of an inch in diameter would take up in Lake Erie.

THIRL FALL.
 IN A BAD FIX.

To think of Jefferson City, Mo., of all towns, being in a fix like this! The Democrat-Tribune walls: "One-half of Missouri is now beardless and the other half has all the beard it wants and would be glad to apply the dry hair. Across the Osage River one may purchase beer from licensed dealers, but in Jefferson City and all that part of the State comprising the western division of the United States courts, no beer can be sold legally. What it is perfectly lawful to do in St. Louis under the ruling of a Federal judge, it is wholly unlawful to do in Jefferson City and Western Missouri under the ruling of another Federal judge."

WALKS ON THE WATER.

Capt. Jack Williams Stages Wonderful Feat at Santa Catalina.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

AVAILON, Jan. 2.—Walking on water, a feat which has been performed by many, but never before by a man of this age, was accomplished by Capt. Jack Williams, of the U. S. Navy, at Santa Catalina Island, today.

To be here New Year's day, Capt. Williams, arrived from Miami, Fla., early this week. He has been an interesting character at Santa Catalina Island since 1895, having most of his time in the waters of Avalon Bay both summer and winter. Last September he left for Florida, intending to go to Cuba for the winter, but was unable to get passports so returned to the Santa Catalina.

Capt. Jack's walking on water, which has been a feat for many years, was accomplished by him today. He walked on the water for a distance of about a mile, and was seen by a large number of people who were on the island.

YEAR STARTS WITH A RUSH.

Santa Ana Launches Biggest Building Boom.

Permit Issued for Big Hotel to Cost $200,000.

Comparative Figures Make Fine Showing for City.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

SANTA ANA, Jan. 2.—Santa Ana's 1920 building programme started with a rush today, when ten building permits, aggregating $223,150, were issued by Building Inspector Thomas Ash.

Permit No. 1 went to the Santa Ana Building Fund, of which A. J. Crookshank is president and R. L. Bishy secretary, for the new $200,000 tourist hotel being erected on North Broadway. Myron Hunt of Los Angeles is the architect, and Ed C. English of Los Angeles the general contractor. J. W. Shields of Santa Ana has the painting contract. J. G. Robertson the electric wiring contract, the Thomas Haverly Company of Los Angeles the heating and plumbing contract, and the Union Hardware Company of Los Angeles will furnish the hardware through a Santa Ana dealer.

The hotel is to be three stories, with eighty rooms, each with bath, and the exterior will be white and green, and of the old English inn style of architecture. Seven residences were also authorized today, two for M. F. Dolg, $2500 and $4000; one for George R. Wells, $4000, and three for Shaw & Russell, $2000 each.

GREAT BUILDING YEAR.

Six hundred and twenty-two permits were issued in 1919, including 141 new residences and ten buildings, aggregating $744,000. This was a new high mark, exceeding by $60,000 the previous year, and was more than three times the 1918 building total. But, while 1919 was the banner year to date, today's permits are a year to date, today's permits are a year to date, today's permits are a year to date.

New construction aggregating $1,500,000 is already in sight for this year, including the following projects: First National Bank Building, six stories, $500,000; cannery enlargement, California Packing Corporation, $100,000; modern apartment, $100,000; factory, California Cattle Company, $25,000; garage, county of Orange, $20,000; brick bays, J. ## LOS ANGELES PARTY ARE AUTO VICTIMS.

FOUR INJURED WHEN MACHINE TURNS TURTLE NEAR SAN DIEGO.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 2.—Four persons were injured at the top of Biological grade when the auto in which they were riding turned turtle. The injured were taken to the La Jolla Sanatorium and the car was towed to a garage at that place.

The four occupants of the machine were residents of Los Angeles and were en route to San Diego. In the car were E. Peterson, 3300 Stephenson avenue; Frank Mahoney, 2286 West Fifth street; Mrs. Mary C. Shaw and Mrs. W. P. Fowler, both of 1904 West Sixth street, Los Angeles.

Peterson had two ribs and his collarbone broken and the others were cut and bruised. The car was making the first curve on the grade and the driver cut the curve on the inside of the pavement. The front wheel hit the soft sand and the machine turned completely around and capsized. Passing automobiles stopped and carried the injured to the sanatorium.

SERVICE

"Use Us In Your Service"

The Solution of the Plaster Question

ALL this talk about a shortage in plaster is based on fancy, not on fact. The Blue Diamond Plaster Company has sufficient plaster on hand to meet the building requirements for some months to come.

Months ago we foresaw the scarcity on materials and we prepared ourselves to meet it. Today we are producing all the plaster that we have orders for and can take care of an increased volume immediately.

And what is more we have the means of delivering it. We maintain a fleet of motor trucks to bring the line from our kilns to our mixing plant where it is made into READY-TO-USE AND EXTERIOR PLASTER, BRICK-LAYER MORTAR AND PUTTY.

A complete stock of building materials also on hand.

Don't be Misled by the Cheaper First Cost of Woodlath

In the past many builders have been misled in thinking that the slightly cheaper first cost of woodlath meant a saving in the construction cost of their buildings.

The fallacy of this is apparent and today, builders everywhere from Canada to Mexico are using a far more economical, durable and satisfactory lathing material. Their specifications always call for

This widespread preference for Buttonlath offers convincing proof of its superior advantages over ordinary lathing. Indeed, the demand for Buttonlath has grown so rapidly that we have been forced to double the production of our plant.

Buttonlath possesses a positive mechanical bond that prevents checking and cracking—is a perfect sound deadener, tested fire retardant and heat insulator, and is always uniform in quality. Used on the exterior as well as the interior.

Buttonlath may be imitated but never equaled. When you build, specify—Buttonlath.
